CURRENT POSITION(S)

Visiting Scholar (Erwin Schrödinger Fellowship) – Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies – Stanford University | Lecturer, Department of Political Science, University of Innsbruck | Lecturer, University of Applied Sciences BFI FH, Vienna

RESEARCH

My research follows two interlinked directions: international political theory and policy issues of international peace and security. I am writing on the international political theory of Realism and the English School as well as issues of religion, diplomacy, and agency in international politics. Asking what IR as practical philosophy can contribute to understanding international politics, my research interrogates the philosophical and anthropological roots of international theory and violence, the agency of individuals and international organizations, and institutions such as diplomacy and war. My interdisciplinary work also focuses on topics of foreign policy, international cooperation, and international organizations.
